From Policy to Practice: Progressing Recognition of Prior Learning

Recognition of Prior Learning Outcomes

RPLO Project

A Leonardo Project funded by the European Commission, supported by ECOTEC

This is an important opportunity to examine developments in recognition of prior learning, both in England and across the European Community. The conference sessions will report the work of an EU-funded project which has developed specific recognition processes for vocational teachers and trainers. It will also discuss the state of development of recognition processes in selected EU nations.

It will be of general interest to all those engaged with developing policy and practice in recognition of prior learning, as well as to those developing specific processes - such as recognition units.

The conference will include an overview of the way in which national and international codes of practice and criteria impact on developments. It offers tightly structured inputs from different nations, as well as a good opportunity for Q&A with the country representatives for this project.
